CNTA YOUNG PROFESSIONALS GIVE BACK

Citizens for Nuclear Technology (CNTA) recently held a young professionals' event called Tap into Nuclear and dedicated the evening to Servant Leadership and giving back.

Approximately 30 young professionals attended the event, held at Café Scientifique in Aiken, South Carolina. Attendees brought gift cards, food, clothing and other essentials for area non-profits helping those in need through the holidays. CNTA will donate these items to Area Churches Serving Together (ACTS), the Cumbee Center and other area charitable organizations.

A presentation on servant leadership was presented by Mark Davis, Senior Vice President of NNSA Operations and Programs at Savannah River Site. The young professionals in attendance heard stories of operational failures as warnings of when leaders fail to lead from a place of service.

The Tap into Nuclear series provides young professionals networking and mentoring opportunities. They either focus on a topic or a workshop designed to help young professionals further their career goals. More information about the series can be found at: <https://cntaware.org/tap-into-nuclear/>. The 2022 series will kick off in February.

CNTA would like to thank the young professionals who organized the event, Mark Davis for his time, and Huntington Ingalls Industries for sponsoring the event.

CNTA is an Aiken-based charitable educational organization dedicated to providing factual information about nuclear topics and educating the public on nuclear issues. For further information, call CNTA at 803-649-3456 or e-mail at cnta@bellsouth.net.
